What will my employer gain from this qualification?

A safer workplace – NEBOSH Diplomates assist employers in protecting against injury and loss of life around the world. This helps to maintain a healthy workforce, avoiding prosecution, litigation, absence costs and loss of reputation.

Assurance – Employing NEBOSH-qualified staff demonstrates a strong commitment to health and safety, as well as professional-level competence. This can help employers to achieve recognised standards and win new business.

Return on investment – An employee with a NEBOSH International Diploma has a proven set of high-level skills and knowledge that bring real value to the modern workplace.

What does the course cover and how is it assessed?

It emphasises practical management, encouraging a proportionate response to risk while providing a clear understanding of the role of the practitioner.

Students are empowered to positively influence health and safety standards and practice at every organisational level.

The syllabus comprises four units:

- Unit IA: Managing health and safety
- Unit IB: Hazardous substances/agents
- Unit IC: Workplace and work equipment safety
- Unit DNI: Application of health and safety management in the workplace

Units IA, IB and IC are each assessed by a written examination.

Unit DNI is a workplace-based assignment, requiring students to conduct a review of health and safety arrangements in their own organisation. It is a common practical unit that can contribute to achievement of the NEBOSH National Diploma in Occupational Health and Safety.
